NORTH CROSSVILLE

Mr. Patey, Principal of the new school, made a brief trip to Nashville last week.

Rev. Hawkins, of Bell Buckle, visited the school last Thursday night, and made a very interesting as well as helpful talk at Chapel Friday morning—subject: "Habit."

Rev. Tedford left Saturday to fill his regular appointment at Crab Orchard. He was accompanied by Orton Miller. We understand Rev. Tedford is quite popular as a pastor at that place and is doing an immense amount of good with the young boys.

About thirty of the students attended Sunday School and preaching at Crossville, Sunday.

Miss Lena Thurman spent the week-end with home folks.

Rev. Beasley, of Cookeville, gave an excellent address at Chapel period Saturday morning. All the students have learned to love Reverends Hawk and Beasley, and these two good men will always find a welcome for them at the new school.

Mrs. McCormack, (matron) and little daughter, Dimple, attended services at Crossville, Sunday, and were dinner guests of their friend, Mrs. Harry Spencer.

Another new student for last week. Quite a number of the students were invited out for dinner Sunday by Crossville friends.

There is a lowering cloud hovering over the spirits of the student body which can only be accounted for by the ominous approach of final exams, which are this week and next.

The Epworth League, which was organized sometime ago, is proving quite helpful and interesting. Quite a little friendly rivalry is being shown between the leaders, to see which side can present the most interesting programs. The young ladies conducting League on one Sunday evening, the boys the next.

A word of praise is due the students for the interest they have taken, and are taking in beautifying the grounds about the school building. This is due to the students as well as a teacher's greater desire for higher ideals of life than just mere book learning. And while they are very busy, yet they find time for pleasant recreation, and many hours are whiled away playing volley and football, and the ground is being rapidly prepared for a basketball court.

Hear the story of a young hero who is bound to make his mark in the world. Barefoot and penniless and with no clothes except those on his back and one shirt which he carried unwrapped in his hand, John Painter, a lad of 12 years, walked over the rugged mountains to Cosby Academy, in order that he might get an education. Cosby is one of the six Baptist mission schools in the state of Tennessee. John's mother is a widow with three little girls. The boy had an ambition to learn the three "R's," and so he made his way over the mountains to the Academy. He had no money to buy text books. No bedding or quilts. But he told the Principal, R. L. Marshall, that he had come to the Academy with prayer and faith that the Lord would open up a way for him to work his way through school. After three fruitless weeks, blue weeks, his mother advised him to quit school and go back to the farm. Then a noble woman from Knoxville wrote that she would clothe the little lad, and a splendid layman wrote that he would turn over to the Academy a sufficient amount to educate the lad. To prevent the boy from being pauperized, the layman stipulated that the boy must work for the Academy at so much an hour and earn his money. So the beautiful faith of little John Painter was rewarded. And he will get an education and every other good gift promised the faithful. John Painter has a goal. He means to attain it. As the instrument of that attainment he hopes to acquire an education in school. It is an old road. It has been worn deep by the feet of sturdy young pilgrims with eyes set on the future. It is a good road, for no man acquires education for himself alone. It is a hard road, like Jordan, because men are made strong by contrast with difficulties which require strength for surmounting.

Every body busy preparing for and thinking of the joyous Christmas tide which is so rapidly approaching. Every gift from the tiniest apron with yellow pumpkins and little chicks upon them, to the most elaborate and expensive gift is being tucked away in some secret place to await the jingle of the reindeer's sled and dear old St. Nicholas shall distribute each precious parcel to its appointed place.

THE body of this durable roofing is made of Carey Woolfelt thoroughly saturated with the toughest, most elastic asphalt compound. The surface is thickly coated with mica (isinglass) put on at 400° of heat and rolled in under heavy pressure.

Mica makes the roofing spark-proof; it stands three thousand degrees of heat. It is a protection against lightning—being the most perfect non-conductor of electricity obtainable—used in electric light bulbs. No superior to mica as an insulator has ever been discovered.

Tough, durable, weather-resisting, fire-resisting, Mica-Kote Roofing will keep your buildings warmer, and give you long service at astonishingly low cost. Made in three weights. Ask us about them.

The unusually open fall has kept tame pastures green so long that farmers are making much more butter than they usually do at this season of the year. In some instances farmers have found trouble in selling all the butter they bring to town. This is to be very much regretted for a considerable portion of the year many persons are very anxious to buy country butter and are unable to secure as much as they want.

Since the Primary Election the secretary has received numerous letters requesting that their check of one dollar be sent to them by mail. In no instance did any one send postage. There were 21 precincts and six persons to the precinct, which means 126 persons. If we should send each person a check by mail we would be out financially a little over $2.50. There is nothing in this secretary job in a financial way, but there is a big lot of bother. If you want your check sent to you, either send for it by some person or send a two cent stamp to pay postage. We can furnish the envelopes but not the postage. S. C. Bishop, Secretary Republican Executive Committee.
